ABSTRACT

This is a proposed briefing to be given to all new employees and thus includes no Top Secret information. Proposed charts illustrating the mission, the elements of the mission, the functions, and the organization are given. In general, the speech would sum up the two basic jobs of ORR, intelligence research and production of intell reports. It gives the four basic fields in which ORR is interested--transportation, communications, strategic commodities, and the Soviet orbit economy and specifically outlines its functions--the NIS program, map intell, briefing and debriefing and evaluation. Finally the speech outlines the six major divisions of ORR and their relationship with CIA and outside agencies.
